

TO TEST THE LAW

Tennessee Adventists Will Try
the Sunday Statute.

ABLE ATTORNEYS RETAINED

Don M. Dickinson and Colonel Ingersoll
Will Appear in the Case at the Supreme Court.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 29.—Eleven Seventh Day Adventists will be placed on trial in the Henry county criminal court at Paris tomorrow morning, charged with violating the law of Tennessee by working on their farms on Sunday. The case has attracted widespread attention, owing to the fact that it is the first time that the constitutionality of the Tennessee Sunday law, and will undoubtedly go to the supreme court of the United States. Eminent counsel have been employed to defend the rights of the prisoners, among them being Don M. Dickinson. It is also said that Robert G. Ingersoll has been retained to assist in presenting the case of the United States supreme court when it reaches that tribunal.

The defendants and their attorneys expect that a verdict will be returned against them by the Tennessee courts, as the supreme court of this state has already affirmed the constitutionality of the Sunday law in several decisions. The real fight will not take place until the case reaches the federal courts. The National Liberty association, an organization with headquarters at Chicago and Battle Creek, Mich., has employed counsel for the Adventists to conduct the case through the courts. The defendants, W. S. Lowry, J. H. Horton, James Stern and J. M. Moon were convicted on their own testimony that they had worked on their farms Sunday, on other evidence being introduced.

Additional interest will be attracted to the case, which comes up tomorrow, by the fact that six railroad employees will be arraigned at the same time, charged with performing unnecessary labor on Sunday. The Paducah, Tennessee & Atlanta Railway company has retained counsel to defend its employees, and it is probable that this case will also go to the United States supreme court.

DEADLY MISPLACED SWITCH

A Passenger Train Crashes into a Freight With Fatal Results.

EVANSTON, Wis., Jan. 29.—At 10 o'clock last night the first section of train No. 185 was side-tracked at Cudahy to let a north-bound passenger train go by. Owing to a misplaced switch and dense fog, the passenger train went crashing into the caboose, smashing it and derailling three or four other cars. Eight persons were injured, two of them seriously.

The injured were: Freight Conductor McLaughlin, skull crushed, will probably die; J. W. Chapman, fireman, hurt about the back and chest, may die; Louis McCue, engineer, cut about the head and body, not dangerously; Brakeman Niles, hurt about the head and body, four unknown men. The injured were taken to Racine on a special and are at St. Mary's hospital.

OVERSEAS STEAMER

The City of Peking is Six Days Behind
Her Time.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 29.—Uneasiness over the steamer City of Peking has changed today to alarm among the friends of passengers. The steamer was due from Hong Kong and Yokohama last Tuesday. Assuming that she took the longer and safer route around Japan, she should have been here Friday. She is now six days overdue and it is certain some accident has befallen her. Her commander, Captain Hearn, is one of the Pacific Mail's most careful captains, and never takes any risk. She is one of the strongest boats of the China line and has been here from several trips. It is suggested as one reason for her delay that she may have been met by a vessel from Honolulu and asked to stop there to add the Boston in maintaining order, but this theory is not regarded as very probable.

KILLED HER DEFIANT

Isaac Moore Aims Gun at Bullet Through His Wife.

PIKEVILLE, Ky., Jan. 29.—A highly sensational double murder occurred near here last night. Isaac Moore, a wealthy lumber merchant, shot and killed William Kelly and then sent a bullet through the body of his Moore's wife. Moore had gone home and found his wife with Kelly. The latter ran Moore out of the house. In the yard the fleeing man stopped, turned on his pursuer and sent three bullet bolts through him. Mrs. Moore then attacked her husband with a butcher knife and received a ball in her abdomen in return. Moore surrendered and is now in jail.

They were leaders in the Garza revolutionary movement of eighteen months ago. The Mexican government made strong efforts to extradite them, but was not successful.

Physicians were summoned and it was found that Colonel Grover's death had been caused by heart disease, and that he had been ill for several hours. After being embalmed the body was arrayed in the court uniform of the dead officer. James Hayes, the British consul, was notified of the death and immediately telegraphed to Sir Harry Wood of the British Royal Commission, who will notify the family of the deceased.

Last night he was murdered, his head being cut with a hatchet. Young Hall, when he arrived in the city, was well supplied with money, but when he was found bleeding and unconscious at 2 o'clock this morning he had no money in his pocket. Twenty men and women are under arrest as suspects. In a house near where Hall was found are evidences of murder. Young Hall was a son of a Hall of Keokuk, Ia.

A special committee waited on the world's fair committee of ways and means last Wednesday. The committee reported that they had been received with marked discourteousness by the fair committee and had not been allowed a hearing.

Three Men Killed

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Jan. 29.—The fast freight from New York to New Orleans on the Newport News & Mississippi Valley road was wrecked at Ashland, a small station about seventy miles below this city. James Price, the engineer, Alfred Tierney, the fireman, and Walter Harris, a colored brakeman, were crushed under the engine and instantly killed. The engine and six cars were demolished. A misplaced switch was the cause.

Cigarettes and Insanity

KILPATRICK, N. J., Jan. 29.—Sam W. Whitely, a railroad telegrapher at North Elizabeth station, became violently insane here today from excessive cigarette smoking. He used to make his own cigarettes of the strongest tobacco, and was rarely seen without one in his mouth.

Two Remarkable Epitaphs

The two most remarkable epitaphs in the United States are those of Daniel Barrow, formerly of Farmington, and that of Hank Munk, Harrow (Greedy) stage driver. The former reads as follows: "Here is laid Daniel Barrow, who was born in sorrow and borrowed little from nature except his name, and his love to mankind, and his hatred for redskins. Who was nevertheless a gentleman and a dead shot, who through a long life never killed his man except in self defense or by accident, and who, when he at last went under beneath the bullets of his cowardly enemies in Jeff Morris' saloon, did so in the sure and certain hope of a glorious and everlasting morning."

Hank Munk's epitaph reads thus: "Buried to the memory of Hank Munk, the whiffet, buggit, honked and bent known stage driver of the west, who was kind to all and thought of none. He lived in a strange era and was a hero, and the wheels of his coach are now ringing on the golden streets."—St. Louis Republic.

Why Musicians "Tune Up"

A correspondent asks, "Why do musicians tune their instruments after instead of before coming into the orchestra?"

It is a mistake to imagine there is no tuning of the instruments before coming into the orchestra. Violinists, double bass players and violas (if professionals or good amateurs) keep their instruments, as a rule, up to concert pitch, the difference of temperature, the loosening of a peg or variation in the tension of the strings necessitating another tuning when in the orchestra. Strings of cutgut are materially affected by moisture, which swells them laterally and tends to shorten them. Damp heat flattens them, while dry heat flattens them.

Concert rooms, according to the state of the weather, experience both conditions. Hence so much tuning and playing as soon as in the orchestra is necessary to get the instruments accustomed to the temperature of the room. Wood wind instruments, such as oboes, clarinets and bassoons, sharpen from the swelling of the wood by the warm, moist breath of the performer. The brass instrument also sharpens by the heat of the performer's breath.—London Tit-Bits.

Abolishing London Fogs

The London county council has turned out to be a remarkably active and enterprising body, but when it is said to be seriously proposing to take up the problem of abolishing the fogs that have so long given ill repute to that city, it would seem that it is taking a tremendous contract upon its hands. For a proposition to abolish the London fogs sounds very much like interfering with the order of nature, such as undertaking to stop snowstorms, or like General Dyrenforth, attempting to shake rain out of the sky. But when it is considered that the horrible fogs of London are of comparatively modern date, that they did not exist two centuries ago, and that they are due to human agency, and the undertaking, though still a large one, does not seem unfeasible.

The character of these fogs, which obscure everything with an almost inky blackness and often make noonday as dark as midnight, is due to the clouds of uncombusted carbon poured out by thousands of chimneys into a humid, misty atmosphere, where the smoke mixes itself with the natural fog in such a way as to seem almost a solid. The only thing required, therefore, to prevent the fogs is to provide a different method of combustion.—Boston Herald.

Whimsical Children

Children are supposed to be the most whimsical creatures in the world, and yet there have been grown men who were quite as much so as any child that ever lived. The writer knows a little girl who cannot go to sleep unless she has a piece of rubber held between her thumb and forefinger, which some persons consider to be whimsical in the extreme, but what have these to say of Haydn, one of the greatest of composers of music, who could not put two notes together until he had dressed himself in his best suit and had his hair powdered, and who declared that without a certain diamond ring, the gift of Frederick II of Prussia, on his finger he could not begin to work, since he could not summon a single idea into his head? Other composers have been equally whimsical.—Harper's Bazar.

Boston Her Standard

The following story is told me of a little girl who spent some weeks in a visit among relatives in this city not long ago. When the day of her visit ended she returned to her home in Maine. A few days later there was a camp meeting in the immediate neighborhood of her home, and she frequently attended with her mother. She heard many glowing descriptions of the beauties of the heavenly land, and she became enthusiastic over the prospect of such a glorious future home. One day, unable to restrain herself longer, she said to her mamma: "Let's hurry up and get to heaven before it's filled up. I want to go there. If it's anything like Boston I shall never want to come back."—Boston Globe.

Its popularity seems to be increasing steadily, and the management is in the hands of experienced and reliable men, who are conducting its affairs in admirable shape.

In Olden Times

People overlooked the importance of permanently beneficial effects and were satisfied with transient action; but now that it is generally known that Syrup of Figs will permanently cure biliousness, constipation, indigestion, headache, dizziness, nervousness, which act for a time, but finally injure the system.

The success of Chamberlain's cough remedy in effecting a speedy cure of colds, croup and whooping cough has brought it into great demand. Messrs. Pontius & Son of Canton, O., say that it has gained a reputation second to none in that vicinity. James M. Queen of Johnston, W. Va., says it is the best he has ever used. F. Jones, druggist, Winoona, Minn., says: "Chamberlain's cough remedy is perfectly reliable. ## Mothers and Daughters

Over twelve years I was afflicted with a very serious female difficulty and for the last sixteen months was under treatment of three of the very best physicians that money could employ. Under their skillful treatment I gradually grew worse, until they decided they could render me no permanent help. One of my friends persuaded me to try a bottle of Dullum's Great German Uterine Tonic, and after taking three bottles, I can say I am in better health than I have been for twenty years, and am now 60 years old, but feel as young as at 30.
